

Home » IANS » 'Pandemic a time for humanity to change its very basic philosophy'

'Pandemic a time for humanity to change its very basic philosophy'

By IANS

Published on :Tue 22nd September 2020, 03:07 PM

Follow Newsd On

Latests Posts

Falguni Shane Peacock's collection focuses on the new age bride

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 06:05 AM

The future is brighter: Designer Kunal Rawal

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 06:05 AM

By Vishnu Makhijani

New Delhi, Sep 22 (IANS) The coronavirus pandemic has endangered our basic human rights and liberties and taught us that it is time to change our values, priorities and perspective if humanity is to survive, says Ramin Jahanbegloo, a prominent political philosopher of Iranian origin, in his new book, "The Courage to Exist – A Philosophy of Life and Death in the Age of Coronavirus" (Orient BlackSwan).

Now travel by plane if you don't get a confirmed railway seat

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 05:31 AM

Putin urges to remove barriers to medical cooperation

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 04:11 AM

Gujarat assembly passes Industrial Disputes Act (Amendment Bill) 2020

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 03:57 AM

Israel reports 2,445 new Covid-19 cases; 193,374 in total

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 03:27 AM

Scolded at home, 11-yr-old sets off for Haridwar on bicycle

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 02:08 AM

Executive Director of the Mahatma Gandhi Centre for Nonviolence and Peace Studies and the Vice-Dean of the School of Law at Jindal Global University in Sonapat, writes.

“In the Middle Ages, people considered the Black Death as a punishment from God. But in a post-theological world like ours, even those who believe in the story of the Apocalypse wear masks and go to the hospital to be tested for corona.

Therefore, to believe or not to believe in the final judgement does not change the fact that this virus has endangered our basic rights and civil liberties and emptied the houses of God,” Jahanbegloo writes in this slim 96-page book that will definitely make you sit up and think.

“The threat of the coronavirus should make us conscious of the existence of bigger threats that endanger human lives (like climate change). It is time for humanity to understand that the consequences of its actions will be disastrous and catastrophic. What the coronavirus pandemic teaches us is that if humanity is to survive, this is the time for it to change its values, its priorities, and its perspectives,” Jahanbegloo asserts.

As members of the human race, for each of us today, “life and death are critical points when we must respond to the zeitgeist. The coronavirus pandemic is certainly one of those historical moments when our past, present and future seem to be colliding in the same zeitgeist. The time and space of the coronavirus is certainly an instant of ‘proclamation’ but also one of ‘decision’”.

“The non-human world of the coronavirus has proclaimed its supremacy over the human world and taken control of human destiny. But the human world has not yet pronounced its last word. Humanity is living its kairos, its propitious moment and its opportunity to take a for rape, wrongful restraint, other charges

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 01:47 AM

Lavender oil benefits: Know how healthy it is for your hair, skin, body and mind

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 01:30 AM

Reliance Jio introduces new plans, get 3GB data daily and Disney Hotstar Plus VIP subscription at this price

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 01:28 AM

US Covid-19 deaths top 200,000

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 01:15 AM

Have worked hard on fitness, power hitting: Sanju Samson

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 01:21 AM

Stressing on the need to re-evaluate some of the basic values on which the socio-economic and political contracts of our world stand, Jahanbegloo says this can only happen by “redefining the art of living together as an act of global exchange”.

“The art of living together cannot be measured in terms of self-interests and personal ambitions (as it is in the corporate world), but in terms of virtue and excellence applied to a global citizenship.

“Democracy is based, both in theory and practice on the idea of civic virtue and on the simple truth that citizens are capable to governing themselves. Civic virtue is the central matrix for self-reflectiveness and self-government. It is crucial to understand that the coronavirus pandemic has been accompanied by the decline of civic values and the lack of citizen virtue in different segments of global society,” the author laments but is nonetheless optimistic of the future.

“This is where civic education as a democracy-building tool must play an important role and is a vital requirement for establishing a common humanity and solidarity. In post-coronavirus societies, where human plurality and civil liberties are threatened, civic education or paideia is the only door open to an art of living together,” Jahanbegloo maintains.

“This is our only kairos, our unique window of opportunity to save humanity from itself...we all know that we are living through the death of a culture which offered us the path to power,

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 12:50 AM

Long gap, 14-day quarantine doesn't help:
Dhoni on staying at No 7

🕒 WEDNESDAY 23RD SEPTEMBER 2020, 01:27 AM

had so many reasons not to live a life of minimalism, rigorous sanitizing and mask-wearing.

“The courage to live the art of living is our passport to the future,” Jahanbegloo concludes.

If only someone would explain this to Donald Trump!

(Vishnu Makhijani can be reached at vishnu.makhijani@ians.in)

–IANS

vm/in

(This story has not been edited by Newsd staff and is auto-generated from a syndicated feed.)

(For more latest news and updates Like us on Facebook, Follow us on Twitter. Download our mobile app)

About Newsd

Our innovative timeline and follow functionalities allow you to track what is of essence to your sensibilities. Join our events to engage with key stakeholders in the

TRENDING

National Panchayati Raj Day 2020: Importance, significance and theme of the day

World Heritage Day 2020: 5 Heritage sites that you must visit after lockdown ends

Bored at home? Here are 5 best free online games to kill boredom

The Zoom Prisoner: India's top VC Sanjay Nath perfectly captures sentiment of WFH

Both Ramayan and Mahabharat shows enticed the viewers as well as advertisers

75 million people have already downloaded Arogya Setu app

Netflix adds 15.8mn new subscribers, posts $5.7bn in revenue

Coronavirus Impact: Government freezes dearness allowance of its employees

results: Arvind Kejriwal

Opinion: What plagues in Islamic past teach us about response to pandemics

INDIA

STATE NEWS

SPORTS

LIFESTYLE

- Politics
- Economy
- Education
- Celebrity News
- Elections

- Delhi
- Karnataka
- Lakshadweep
- kerala
- Bihar

- Icc Cricket World Cup 2019
- Football
- Kabaddi
- Tennis
- Badminton

- Humour
- Travel
- Fashion
- Health & Wellness
- Auto

